A new book for the first course in finance . . .

PRINCIPLES OF FINANCE

by Dauten and Welshans

Here is a book that is designed for the first course in finance for business majors. It is also an ideal textbook if only one course in finance is offered in a school.

PRINCIPLES OF FINANCE adequately treats financial institutions. In addition, it discusses the functions, principles, practices, procedures, and problems of finance that have become important in our present-day economy.

1960 GREGG BOOKS FOR JUNIOR COLLEGES

1. SECRETARIAL PRACTICE FOR COLLEGES

—Lee, Dickinson, and Brower

Functional new text covering the whole area of secretarial practice appropriate for the interests and maturity of junior college students. Gives refresher training in shorthand and typing skills. Instructs in personality improvement, human relations, office organization and procedures, financial records, travel, and job-finding. Requires work on business forms. A "doing" book from cover to cover. Workbook will be available.

2. BUSINESS CORRESPONDENCE FOR COLLEGES

—Hunsinger

New text-workbook written especially for college-level classes in business correspondence. Features "letter-reading" approach. All essential subjects covered in short topics. Each immediately followed by a worksheet to cement learning. Generously illustrated with photos and model letters. Special reference section at back of book contains a capsule guide to grammar, punctuation, style and word-usage.
